Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Wednesday 02 Jun 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Less warm for many on Thursday but some pleasant sunshine.

This Evening and Tonight:
Showers and scattered thundery outbreaks continuing northwards across northern England, Northern Ireland and into southern Scotland, easing. Drier but cloudy in much of south, still patchy drizzle in west. Northeast UK cooler, with some coastal fog but fairly warm elsewhere.

Thursday:
Scattered showers crossing northern UK, although far north fine and warm. Elsewhere brightening up, perhaps odd showers later. Less warm, except parts of eastern England, but feeling pleasant.

Outlook for Friday to Sunday:
Risk of thundery rain in the far southeast Friday, otherwise fine overall but with some cloudier spells and showers at times. Light winds, warm days, although locally chilly nights.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.